

Since I am a paying subscriber to XM satellite radio service, I feel that I should be able to be able to obtain the maximum that their service can provide. That they can provide me with up to the minute local traffic and weather and traffic information is a great improvement on the "traffic on the 7's" that the area AMchannels provide. I choose to pay for what the satellite providers are willing to provide and I feel that my options should be limited by the megabroadcasters of the world. Let the innovaters improve the choices that we have available to us, especially since we are willing to pay for the programming that we want. I hate to break the Code of the West and speak a discouraging word, but, I've not been personally impressed by any of the recent improvements resulting from actions by the FCC.
